

Who lives in the rainforest?

1. What type of magazine do you think this article might be found in?

2. How would you describe the author of the article? (Tick as many answers as you think are correct.)

Brave		Sympathetic
Overconfident		Timid
Selfish		Bored
Caring		Interested

3. Why do think the first paragraph is written in Bold Font?

4. What are some of the things the author learns about? Are there any you are surprised to read about?

5. The author wrote about the fish numbers decreasing because of pollution. Can you think of three other ways pollution might change the lives of the people in the rainforest? It may be pollution in the river, air or on the land.

6. What have you learned about the people in the jungle when they fall sick? (Tick the correct box.)

They do not like taking painkillers from strangers.
They have developed their own natural medicine for when they are sick.
If they fall sick, there is no medicine to help them in the jungle.
They are never ill.

7. How do you think the jungle inhabitants might feel if they were made to move to another place again?

8. What things would you miss if you had to move away from home?

9. What do you think the author's conclusions are about her time spent in the jungle? (Tick the boxes you think are correct.)

The jungle inhabitants lead a very sad, lonely life away from civilisation.
Scientists could learn a lot from the wisdom of the people in the jungle.
The jungle surroundings are too noisy and annoying for anyone to live there in peace and happiness.
The jungle is too dangerous to live in.
People in the jungle live well and are happy in the jungle.
There are many things that are destroying the way of life in the jungle, like tree-logging and river pollution.
The jungle inhabitants would love to leave and live in a town or city.

10. Imagine you are a jungle inhabitant. You have come to live in the city for a week. Can you write your article about your time in the town?